

The One who created you

©2000 Polished Arrow Publishing Brenda Geneau

Where do I come from
Why am I here
What is this life all about
So much heartache and so much pain
And you just can't find your way out
You can run to your neighbour, run to your friends
Or you can run to the one who say's he understands
But you'll never find peace till open your heart
To the One who created you

You've done all you can
To make things right
No matter how hard you keep losing the fight
And you'll never win till you open your heart
To the One who created you
He provided the way to freedom at last
Just look to the cross and forget the pass
Jesus Christ the Son of God is able to see you through

He gave His only Son to die
He hung on the cross so that you could find
Your purpose in life here on earth
When you believe in the One who created you.
